BROUGHT TO YOU BY . . .

The original purpose of a school annual was to a book to remember people by. The first yearbooks contained mug shots, class photos, and . . . and . . . that was it. Boy, have yearbooks come a long way. Back then editors and staff didn't have too much to deal with .

Now we have people sticking their tongue out in pictures, people refusing to take their pictures, others who sneak into every picture taken. If theres a camera nearby so are they. Still others moon the camera which is just a little too much for some of us to bare. Then, there are the Sean Penn wannabes who threaten our cameramen's lives. And as if these aren't bad enough then there are . . . DEADLINES argh!

Deadlines alone are enough to make any sane editor or yearbook member pull his / her hair out faster than it can grow in.

But credit has to be given where credit is due. Where would the yearbook go without its faithful, hard working and enduring staff. - Without Miss. Van Heteren to juggle fifty things at once and "having kittens". - Without Lisa being pushing, yelling and screaming to get the perfect shot. - Without Joanne to tone Lisa down, if that's possible, and still finish her assignments by deadline. - Without Mark, our fabulous photographer. (He's the shadowy figure you see lurking in the hallways ready to snap you at your best.) - Without Hal to print all those "Is that really me!?" pics. - Without Alicia and Lauranne, the brave souls undertaking the task of writing grad write ups. - Without Brandie and Suzanne, coming in every night to call advertisers (to help keep the yearbook at its low, low price). - Without Tony and John and Al who are always there in a crunch. And of course where would a yearbook be without a friendly secretary, accountant, advertising executive and print coordinator. A.k.a. Miss Loy, Mrs. Blaskow, Mrs. Starr, and Mr. Bowes.

Without all these people there wouldn't be a yearbook. Nothing for this school's #1 team of students to complain about and then take home and look through for hours. So thank your lucky stars, for without these dedicated few the only thing left to complain about at the end of the year would be the teachers. !!

Thanxs everyone for the great effort. Saviour the results of every single one of those hundreds of hours.

- Neeraj

GUESS ? WHO

We started the year off getting to know each other on a retreat to Tyax Lake Resort. Full of new ideas we headed back Vic High singing the school song. John got things going with day, Lauranne managed to control our budget, Chris typed away diligently at our agendas, and Jeannette took over the P.A. syste keep everyone informed. We all worked together to make things such as the Miss Camosun Pageant, Heart Day, dances, penny d and air bands successful. Thank you for your support and than you to the students' council and sponsors for your hard work.

Good luck to next year's council.

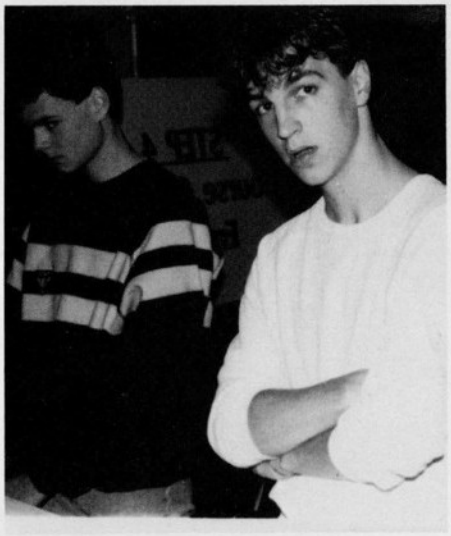
PART OF THE #1 SCENE

Observe: Vic Sapiens in their natural habitat. Pursuing their main indulgence lateral recumbance.

1ST DAY OF SCHOOL



Chaos. Panic. Fear. Hope. Sadness. Raw emotions spill forth. The mesh of mental gears preparing for another year of "The Grind". A voice cries out, "Number 63. " A sea of faces look down at the small sheet of paper in their hands. "Hey I've got number 156, I'll sell it to you for fifty bucks." Students madly seeing if they have the right courses to graduate. "Hey Guevera, what are you taking in block A?" "Colloquial Swahili." "Sounds great, now I have my langue credit." Students frantically seek Peer counsellors, Peer Counsellors, seek Guidance Counsellors in a frenzied mob, and the Guidance Counsellors manically search for a stiff drink. This ocean of humanity is here for one thing, to end their summer and to prepare for the future. We shed a tear for the end of freedom and a smile for being reunited with friends in the year ahead.

Lights flash, music blares, bodies spin, twist, and shout. Batman and Robin sprint in tossing a bomb amongst themselves. Vampires stare into the bathroom mirrors trying to find themselves. A well endowed Elvira spills forth from her low cut dress. A bizarre creature with a vacuum cleaner strapped to his back plummets across the dance floor. Prince Charming and Cinderella stride regally through the front door. While Richard Simmons bounces, flexes, twists, jumps, hurls, and scrambles around.

Once again Vic High enjoyed a pleasurable evening of music, dance, group flaggelation, meeting old friends, and making new ones.

FOR MY BIG BROTHER

We grew up together,
You and I.
Sailing sailboats, making mud pies.
In the games we played together,
You always had me fooled
For when it came time to start
You said, "I'll make the rules."
You made me laugh, you made me cry
And encouraged me to always try.
You were always their to lend me a hand,
To show me you care and understand.
And now big brother,
Now that you're gone
I want you to know
That in my heart you'll be with me
Wherever I go.

Dedicated to my brother, David, who died in 1984.

THOUGHTS...

As the wind sculptures the salt brown coastline,
I found myself sitting on an abruption of rock
Overcome by luxurious colours; I am lost,
The element of escape is within my mind,
Feeling and emotions bounce off the vast greatness
Of the ocean...emotions are tossed.

The oceanic greatness provides a feeling of individuality,
Such greatness reflects my emotions,
Large or small they are certainly reality,
Thoughts of concern and confusion stir a commotion.

The greatness of nature enhances this isolation,
A new outlook on the human existence is produced,
This power brings thoughts and feeling back to
A human level of confrontation,
Solutions are deduced.

Everlasting preservation is experienced with the crashing
Of waves,
Ideas and concerns run rampant,
The gaiety of animals inhabit the washed bays,
Simplistic solutions come to mind as the surge
Of white water breaks in.

A mind is revitalized from all the stress and Anguish of society as the freshness surges through,
A drug such as the ocean frees oneself from
The hardships and confusion of life.
Attitudes, outlook and perspective are based purely
On interactions and communications with other's thoughts,
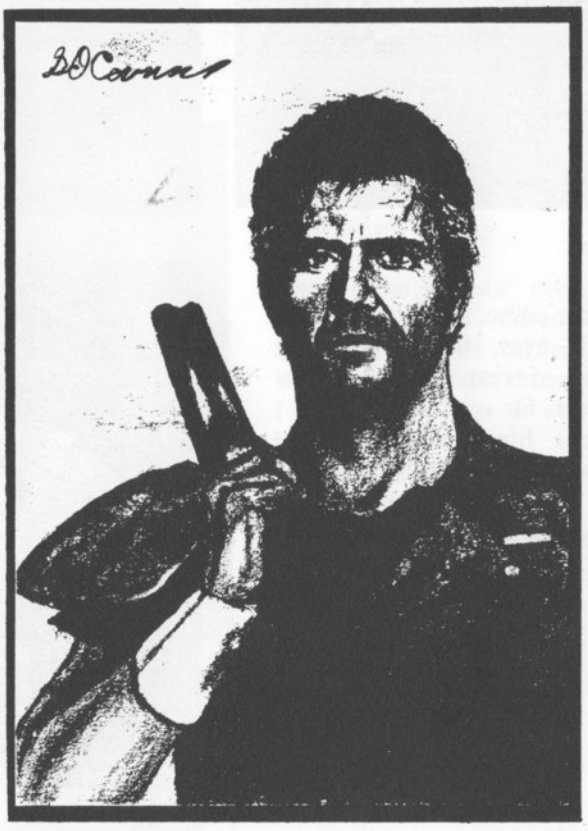
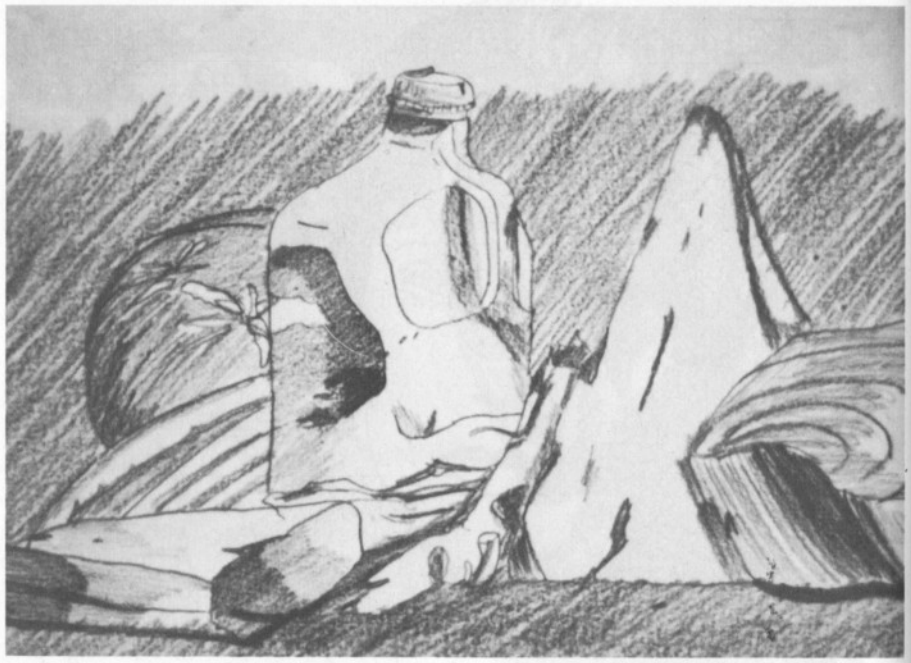
Thoughts are what provides an aware individual
With understanding, courage, integrity and love.





DUST

The night has come, life to dust tears fill their eyes, the time has come for you to rest, choices
you had aren't for you anymore.
Crisis' in your life you don't feel anymore. when time started ticking, we know in our thoughts that life will tick we live and learn then we turn to dust.

FOREVER

The night I met you,
You were so shy.
You didn't talk,
Only through your eyes.
We danced and moved,
Until our moves turned to a kiss.
We only touched through our lips,
I knew then that I was yours.
Hopefully forever,
Forever more.

REMEMBRANCE DAY

Flanders Field, war vets, wreaths, and a moment of silence. These are the usual events to take place on the llth of November. This year, however, Vic High did something different.

The students of Mrs. McDonald's acting class put together a ceremony that not only got us to remember what has happened but to look at what can happen.

As the assembly ended with "Give peace a chance" playing through the P.A., it made us all realize that we, the future, can make this world what we want.

I hope that we all realize this.

ON TEACHERS

by Michael Patrick

As I walk into the classroom on the first day of school, I watch you very carefully. There are many questions that run through my mind that I must try and answer today; for if I'm to be successful in my strategies, I must know you before you know me.

How will you mark my work? Can I impress you with a knowledgeable use of semicolons, or are you a 'dash' person? Do you believe in automobile excuses, or do I have to kill off a family member every time I wish to stay home and watch "Another World"? Can I say that my tires exploded and I had to replace them, and then a week later tell you that my tires are so worn it took me two hours to drive to school? How many illnesses is it possible for my grandmother to contract and still remain alive? If I point out an error in your speech or on the blackboard, will you be embarrassed and give me a detention, or will you smile confidently and say: "It's actually correct when used in this particular context and when relevant to the idiom, but the connection between the irregular and dangling modifiers cannot be understood until a later date."? If you say that, and I realize it doesn't make any sense whatsoever, I promise I won't say anything. There is an art some teachers possess called "Creative Confusion" and I find it a worthwhile art form -- after all, I'll try it on you. What about parent-teacher interviews? Do you jot down all those incredible idiotic things I say? Do you keep all the notes you catch me passing in class in a special file with "Let Him Burn" written across the top? Will you remember to give condolences to my mother on the recent loss of her family members? Will you remember that she was one of them? Do you believe in miraculous recovery, that I could be at home with pneumonia Thursday and Friday and then come to school Monday carelessly bragging about the great weekend I had? Will you notice by the religious holidays my parents force me to honour that I'm Catholic ... and Jewish ... and Muslim ... and Hindu? If I play with my earring until it bleeds can I go to the washroom to clean my ear? Will you notice if it takes an hour? Will you notice that I don't even have an earring? If I write illegibly on a test, can I convince you that I actually wrote the right answer, you're just reading it wrong?

Eventually, every year, these questions are answered, and not usually to my liking. Once in a while though, I slip one by you, or maybe once in a while you let one slip. But if I'm forced to admit it, I will. Teachers can be surprisingly intelligent at times!

THE THREE WISE GUYS

We would like to congratulate the Annual Staff for another outstanding contribution to our school's history. This year's annual is the result of hundreds of hours of work by the students and teachers, including Miss Van Heteren and Mrs. Blazkow. This year's editor Neeraj Grewal deserves our recognition for the leadership provided to her staff.

We would like to congratulate the graduating class of 1988. They have worked hard and have achieved a goal that is deserving of our praise and recognition. All of them should be proud of their accomplishments and thank the people in their lives who have helped make their achievements possible.

We look forward to working with next year's Grade 12 class. They have demonstrated leadership, where it was appropriate, and commitment to our school and their purpose. We hop0e they have a sunny, safe summer.

On behalf of the teachers and staff of our school, we hope the year of '88 was GREAT!

EYE CONTACT INTENSIFIED

by Francesca Tisot

He extends his arm and flexes his fingers with one deliberate motion. The door handle glistens forebodingly. He grasps the handle in his right hand and sharply turns it; the door opens inward. A deathly quiet envelopes the room. He scans the room from left to right while thirty pairs of eyes stare vacantly at his quivering frame. His restless gaze freezes when he meets hers. Her two wise, cold eyes set sights on their prey with venom. He stands defenseless in her line of vision. Her eyes narrow to slits, eyebrows, consequently draw closer together forming a satanic arch over the smouldering coals that glare on. Her nostrils flare simultaneously with the beat of her left foot tapping the linoleum. The beat becomes rapid, the tapping louder. She clenches her thin skeletal fingers into a fist -- she stares. Her fingers flex slowly. Children shift restlessly; expectantly watching. Her eyes widen in contemplation. She directs her attention to the chalk in hand. Fingers tense, curling, uncurling and finally, release the chalk with an uncanny force. Student is late for class again.

This year the Victoria High School Counter Attack Club is working in conjunction with I.C.B.C. and M.A.D.D. to promote awareness of seat belt safety and safe driving practices. This year the club members have planned an array of activites such as gueat speakers, film, and live presentations about the dangers of drinking and driving. The club would like to thank Mrs. Starr and Mrs. O'Reilly for taking time out to help us. Remember: "If you drink, please don't drive, never ride with a drinking driver and don't let a friend drink and drive!"

Choosing a gift to present the school with at graduation or what music is to be played as the grads march down the aisle may sound easy. It's not. Fifteen "grads-to-be" with fifteen different ideas makes it hard to come to an unanimous decision. More often than not we spent our time on less solemn pursuits. We played with balloons, gossiped, and argued about whether or not people would buy black toothbrushes printed with Vic High in gold. We did, however, manage to squeeze some ideas out which satisfied everyone. (Well, almost everyone.)

This year we met on Tuesday mornings at 7:30 a.m., but don't worry you'll get used to the early hours. For an hour and twenty minute we remained in the foods room, eating donuts and learning how to present speeches. This was fun. Meeting new people and making more friends! People always ask, "What is a Sky Club?" Well, the Special Kiwanis Youth Club is a high school organization that involves teens volunteering their time for the elderly and handicapped. This year, the Vic High Sky Club is working at the Oak Bay Kiwanis Pavilion. Every Wednesday, we visit the elderly and help with many other duties. Every Spring, there is a Sky Club Conference. All the clubs from B.C., Washington, and Oregon get together in a host city to meet each other and have some fun. This year, we could be going to Seattle for three days. When the Oak Bay Tea Party comes to Victoria, we raise funds selling ice cream and snacks. During last year's Tea Party weekend, we raised about $2000 for Kiwanis Projects. This is basically what the Sky Club stands for.

Vic Highs PEP Club blew up many, many black and gold balloons this year. On Parent's night, at PEP rallies, and at volleyball and basketball games, PEP Club members blew up lots of balloons. Yet the balloons didn't make the PEP Club special; the enthusiasm, activity, and "pepiness" did. Members learned the school song, "Come Give a Cheer", very well when singing in the hallways during spirit week, Christmas time and school sports events. PEP Club members had a lot of fun this year, and we'd like to see more enthusiastic people and this years Grade 11 members back again in the fall.

Although there were only three teams this season it made for an exciting one. The series was made up of the Whalers, the Red Wings, and the Oilers. The Whalers, who led all the way through, were a very well made defensive team led by such key players as David Charnock, Eddie Rama, and Matthew Malcolm in the goal. The Red Wings, who put up a fight all the way were an equally matched offensive team with key players such as Steve Chan and John Allen leading the way in scoring. The Oilers, due to an unorganized team effort, just could not perform at all this time around. In the end, team participation proved to make for an action-packed season.

HEALTH FAIR – Does a Body Good

Counter Attack Club: The coordinator was Eila Starr. The hosts were Edith Falta, Janet Edgar, Mark Collins, and Jo-Anne Proctor. The objective of the Counter Attack Club was to make people aware of the dangers of drinking and driving, as well as giving lots of information on what Counter Attack does for the community.

CRD Health Dept.: The coordinator was Sharron Higgins. The hostess was Shailoo Bedi. Handouts were available on preventive programs such as the following: CRD programs; health inspections; Birth Control Clinic; AIDS clinic; and immunizations.

Fitness Assessments: The coordinators were Donna Blackstock, Brian Twohig, and Sandy Pethic. The hostess was Krystal Cook. Fitness assessments included a blood pressure check, resting heart rate, skin folds, and girth measurements.

The first Victoria High School Health Fair was a big success. Objectives of the Health Fair were: a) To provide information; b) To introduce students to various health services and personnel in our community; c) To encourage self-knowledge and self-help; d) To help students assess their state of fitness; e) To increase public awareness of Victoria High .

The participants were : fitness assessment How "fit" are you? ; Ergometrics - challenging our rowers! ; Nutrition - You are what you eat! ; B.C. Lung - Butt out ; Counter Attack Club - Don't drink and drive! ; Teen goals - Alcohol & Drug awareness ; Preventive Health Programs-CRD - vaccines, blood pressure, stds. Native Holistic - awareness of options ; and ACOA (Adult Children of Alcoholics).

Peer councellors & teachers helped coordinate community representatives and presented a very informative fun fair.

The Vic High Soccer team was by far the most talented & successful soccer team Vic High has ever had in years! This group of students were extremely competitive and never thought of letting up even when they were down a goal or two. I was very pleased & proud to say I coached the Vic High soccer team. Well done guys!

Vic High was the major surprise of the 1987/88 soccer league season. In our first game, we tied the last years winner of the Colonist Guys (Oak Bay). The biggest thrill of the regular season however, was beating Belmont 5-4 while being down two goals with only five minutes left in the game! Our coach claimed the excitement took two years off his life not to mention losing his voice! Darren Dick (the league's leading scorer) managed to score all five goals.

One busy little goal kept the Vic High Tyees from making the play-offs, ending what had been up until then, a very enjoyable and successful season.

I never ran a Cross Country run before this year. There is nothing quite like the feeling of running up a 45 degree hill with the unforgiving sun melting your shirt to your back. Seriously, I had a great time really!!

When it was all over, we had placed fourth in the Island Championships, our season was over.

Nostalgically, I remember our first practice in early May of '87. At that time we were just a group of players that needed a lot of polishing if we were going to succeed. Our coach, Judy Bourne, gave us just that. By late August our training was so intense, we practiced five days a week.

When our season finally arrived, the hours of practice were clearly evident as we continued to post an undefeated record in league play. Our final match of the season was against Mt. Doug, the only other undefeated team. It was a close match in which Mt. Doug came from behind to win. From this game, we went to the Island Championships placed second in the city. We had been very confident of going to the B.C. Championships. I suppose the reason for this could be attributed to the extreme commitment of the team players.

One might say that our team did quite well throughout the season, yet I know that if we had a second chance, we would have done a lot better!

Vic High captures Island girls' volleyball crown

Victoria High capped an unbeaten round-robin performance by tripping Nanaimo 15-7, 15-9 Saturday to capture the Vancouver Island AA high school girls' volleyball championship at Oak Bay High School.

Vic High finished the preliminary round-robin portion of the eight-team tournament with a 7-0 won-lost record to gain a bye into the final.

Nanaimo, which finished third in the round-robin at 5-2, blocked an all-Victoria final by downing second-finishing (6-1) Mount Douglas 2-1 in the semifinal.

Vic High and Nanaimo now advance to the British Columbia championships Nov. 26-28 at both Highland in Comox and G.P. Vanier in Courtenay.

Spectrum of Victoria finished fourth overall and was followed in order by Max Cameron of Powell River, Oak Bay of Victoria, Alberni and Highland.

The trophy for the most sportsmanlike team was shared by Vic High and Alberni.

TIKIS VOLLEY TO ANOTHER WINNING SEASON.

Though the Tikis were small in number and in size nothing stopped them from volleying, digging, and powering their way to another successful season.

The Tikis climaxed their victorious season with an exciting match against Mt. Doug with a lot of effort, teamwork, perseverance, and encouraging support from many students, and staff. The Tikis came out on top defeating the Ramblers, we were now ranked #1 into the Island championships at Oak Bay. In the Island tournament the Tikis fought hard, and worked as a team to win first place in the tourney, and a berth in the B.C. championships with an astounding 8-0 record. To add to the first place prize, the girls shared the trophy for Most sportsmanlike team with Alberni.

The team was on their way to the B.C.'s for the second year in a row. With teams in the province fighting their way for first place, the competition was not to be overlooked. The Vic High Tikis came out of the B.C.'s as the 10th best team in all of British Columbia. The team would not have had such a rewarding season without all the vigorous practices, hard work, determination, team affinity, and especially the excellent coaching from Miss Donna Blackstock. If it were not for her the Tikis would not be the team they successfully became. And remember ladies, "You snooze you loose !" Congratulations Tikis.

Although the girls basketball team got off to a slow start this year, they finished the season in high spirits. With first year players, improvement was spectacular, with the help from coach Miss Blackstock and fellow teammates.

At the beginning of the season, the games were disastrous. The games could have been classified as practices. This was because at regular practices there were never enough players to scrimmage or conduct real offense - defence plays.

Near the end of the season however, through hard work, the true basketball talent was really showing. The opposing teams really had to work to win. Although there were no wins, the Tigers look prosperous for next year! Even though few players came to practices and the games were high pressure, in the team's mind the team was victorious.

Special thanxs to Miss Blackstock for her time and hard work.

Second Division

The girl's soccer team, the Ty-Ettes, nicknamed "The Ducks" (due to unfavorable weather conditions), enjoyed a rigorous season this year. Starting out slowly, with about half a dozen girls attending practice, the team grew to form a willing and able group of soccer enthusists. The team played forcefully through the season with the likes of Karen Dickson, Krystal Cook and Tanya "The Powerhouse" Dick, only to mention a few. Although the Div. 1 finals were just a little out of reach, the Ty-ettes went on to place well in the Div. 2 finals.

This year Vic High's Rowing Team, the "Tsunami", is a strong and dedicated crew of veterans and excited beginners from Central. For five months, from September to March, we sweated through sessions on the ergometer, weights and stairs under the eagle eyes of our coaches Brian Twohig and Doug Falls, all amidst jokes, parties, and laughter. From March to May our big happy family becomes the terror of Elk Lake, rowing our hearts out.

That means we're together six days a week, no wonder the big Kahuna is tired of staring at Chris' back, and Angie, Julia, and Melissa can't find time for anything else. For Mark, just being on the water makes him feel good and it takes his mind off problems. Brodie just wants to talk about slurpees with Rob and Jordan. Cynthia says the bus rides to and from the lake are right on!!! I'm sure Mr. Campbell (our rockin bus driver) thinks so too. That's when Dee gets to french braid Laird's hair.

Our coach says he's never seen a team so together and so much fun because he loves us all dearly. Cooper wonders if his muscle will ever stop aching. We hope Morgan's ankle will heal in time for the big one--June 4th. Marilyn Pickford cheerfully hassles us for money, shirt sizes and forms. Skippy Rufus declares rowing is not just a sport but a way of life.

Of course, Lance, Em, Tami and all of us are only in it for the people and the laughter (surely not for the love of the sport!!). A pain in the backside? Literally, yes. Fun? You bet your little baby whale it is!

This year's Track and Field season got off to a slow start. Only a few people came out to the Monday and Wednesday practises, but the numbers began to increase and the intensity at practises became greater as the city and island championships drew nearer.

We had a lot of talented athletes on this years team, in events ranging from the 100 metres to the 5000 metres and from the long jump to the javelin. Things are looking good for Track and Field at Vic High!

Let A Peer Counsellor Help You

The Peer Counselling Program entered its second year at Vic High. The program continues to grow and change to meet the needs of the students at our school. Seven students completed the summer training, leaving them filled with enthusiasm and lots of energy to help their peers in whichever way they could. They played a key role in registration in September, reaching out to new students and reaquainting themselves with those returning. The Christmas Hamper Project was a major undertaking, culminating in the delivery of the hampers to Victoria families. The Health fair was a great success coordinated by the peer counsellors, school nurse and the counselling department. One to one counselling, arranging tutors, hosting school events are only some of the areas they were involved in. Their energy and committment has helped make Peer Counselling an important and integral part of Victoria High School.

Vicki Ziegler

"Taking the peer counselling course was wonderful! It's something I would recommend to everyone. Just to meet the people."
-Neeraj Grewal

"I think everyone would benifit from taking the Peer Counselling training program"
-Vicki Ziegler

"Peer Counselling helps you learn more about your friends and yourself and teaches us a positive way to look at our lives. It is also very fun!"

MARIE TIEN

Marie likes D.C. the most, but she's against those who drink and smoke. How's your brother Marie?

KRISTEY TOBAISSEN

Kristey wonders why nobody has invented a money tree yet. Maybe if they had then she could afford to purchase that yellow Corvette convertible she wants so much.

LAURIE TOMANDL

"Lair" admires Colin B. but only because his knees are cute. She likes Mr.Nesmith (because he has wonderful ties), rowing, and knitting. She dislikes Robin Leach for some unknown reason.

JIM TOPP

Jim, who fancies eating, J.T. and Mr. Kent, can't stress enough how much he dislikes computer class. One day he hopes to be a police officer.

SUE T. TRUONG

Sue likes and admires L.A.Q. Her most embarrassing moment was sitting in a puddle of coke in white pants, on her first day of work.

CABIO S. TSE

Cabio likes and admires K.R. and dislikes people who smoke. She likes volleyball, sewing, eating, sleeping and Mrs. Allison.

LAURAL UNWIN

Laural most admires Purple Jesus. Her hobbies include becoming impaired, listening to rockin tunes, and bugging preps. Laural thinks Mr. Packford is cool and we hope she keeps having fun skiing.
